Knowing if your deeds have been accepted

In the name of Allaah, the Most Merciful, the Bestower of Mercy

Question: Noble Shaykh, what are the signs that a deed has been accepted [by Allaah]? And can a person sense this acceptance, can he sense that his action has been accepted?

Shaykh Saalih bin Fawzaan al-Fawzaan (حفظه الله)¹: A person does not know if his deed has been accepted, [knowledge of this] is with Allaah [alone]. That is why the Salaf used to have the utmost fear that their actions might not be accepted.

[Those who give what they give with their hearts full of fear [whether their works have been accepted or not], for they are surely returning to their Lord [for reckoning].]²

Thus, they would do great righteous deeds, [at the same time] fearing that they would not be accepted. But a Muslim must do good works, act in obedience [to Allaah] and have a good opinion about Allaah (عزوجل)³, (hoping in His reward). As for knowing that [deeds] have been accepted, none but Allaah knows this. Thus, some of the Companions have said, "If I knew that Allaah had accepted a mustard seed's [of my deeds], I would wish to die." Because if Allaah accepts from a person, it means he has succeeded. Therefore, one of the causes of deeds being accepted is taqwaa. You must practice taqwaa of Allaah (سبحانه و تعالى)⁶, by doing what He has commanded, leaving what He has forbidden, hastening to obey Him and staying away from disobedience of Him. This is one of the causes for [your deeds] to be accepted.
